Empire Medical Training provides continued education with many programs in the aesthetic field of medicine offering new found income sources through new services that can be added to an existing aesthetic practice. Whether it is an existing practice or wanting to promote a new one there are many filler types on the market that generate increased business. However with Autologous Fat Transfer there are ideal qualities with this procedure that make this Fat Transfer/Grafting profoundly different in generating funds.

With fat transfer procedures being inexpensive to a practicing physician at an average professional fee ranging from $1,500-$2,500 it's easy to realize the benefits of being able to offer any fat transfer procedure. This makes taking an Autologous Fat Transfer training program more than a learning venture but a financially beneficial one with extremely lucrative results.

Any medical professional with an aesthetic practice knows that fat transfer is the safest and most natural of fillers used today. Fat transfer being the most cost effective for the patient with the potential for revascularization and growth makes this an undeniably advanced option to add to any aesthetic practice. Fat Transfer/Grafting allows a physician to diminish or eliminate the appearance of wrinkles, creases, furrows, smile lines and other depressions of the face and body naturally at little or no cost of dermal filler to the physician.

With body fat being a longer lasting and completely non-allergenic method of filler it gives Autologous Fat Transfer the opportunity to become an excellent income generator for physicians and medical practitioners that have the training to accommodate new clientele with this remarkable procedure.

Take advantage of the significant new revenue created from an Autologous Fat Filler Program with professional training from Dr. Stephen Cosentino and the team of specialists at Empire Medical Training.
